There once was a ghost. He thought he was very scary.

One day, he frightened a ravenous lion.

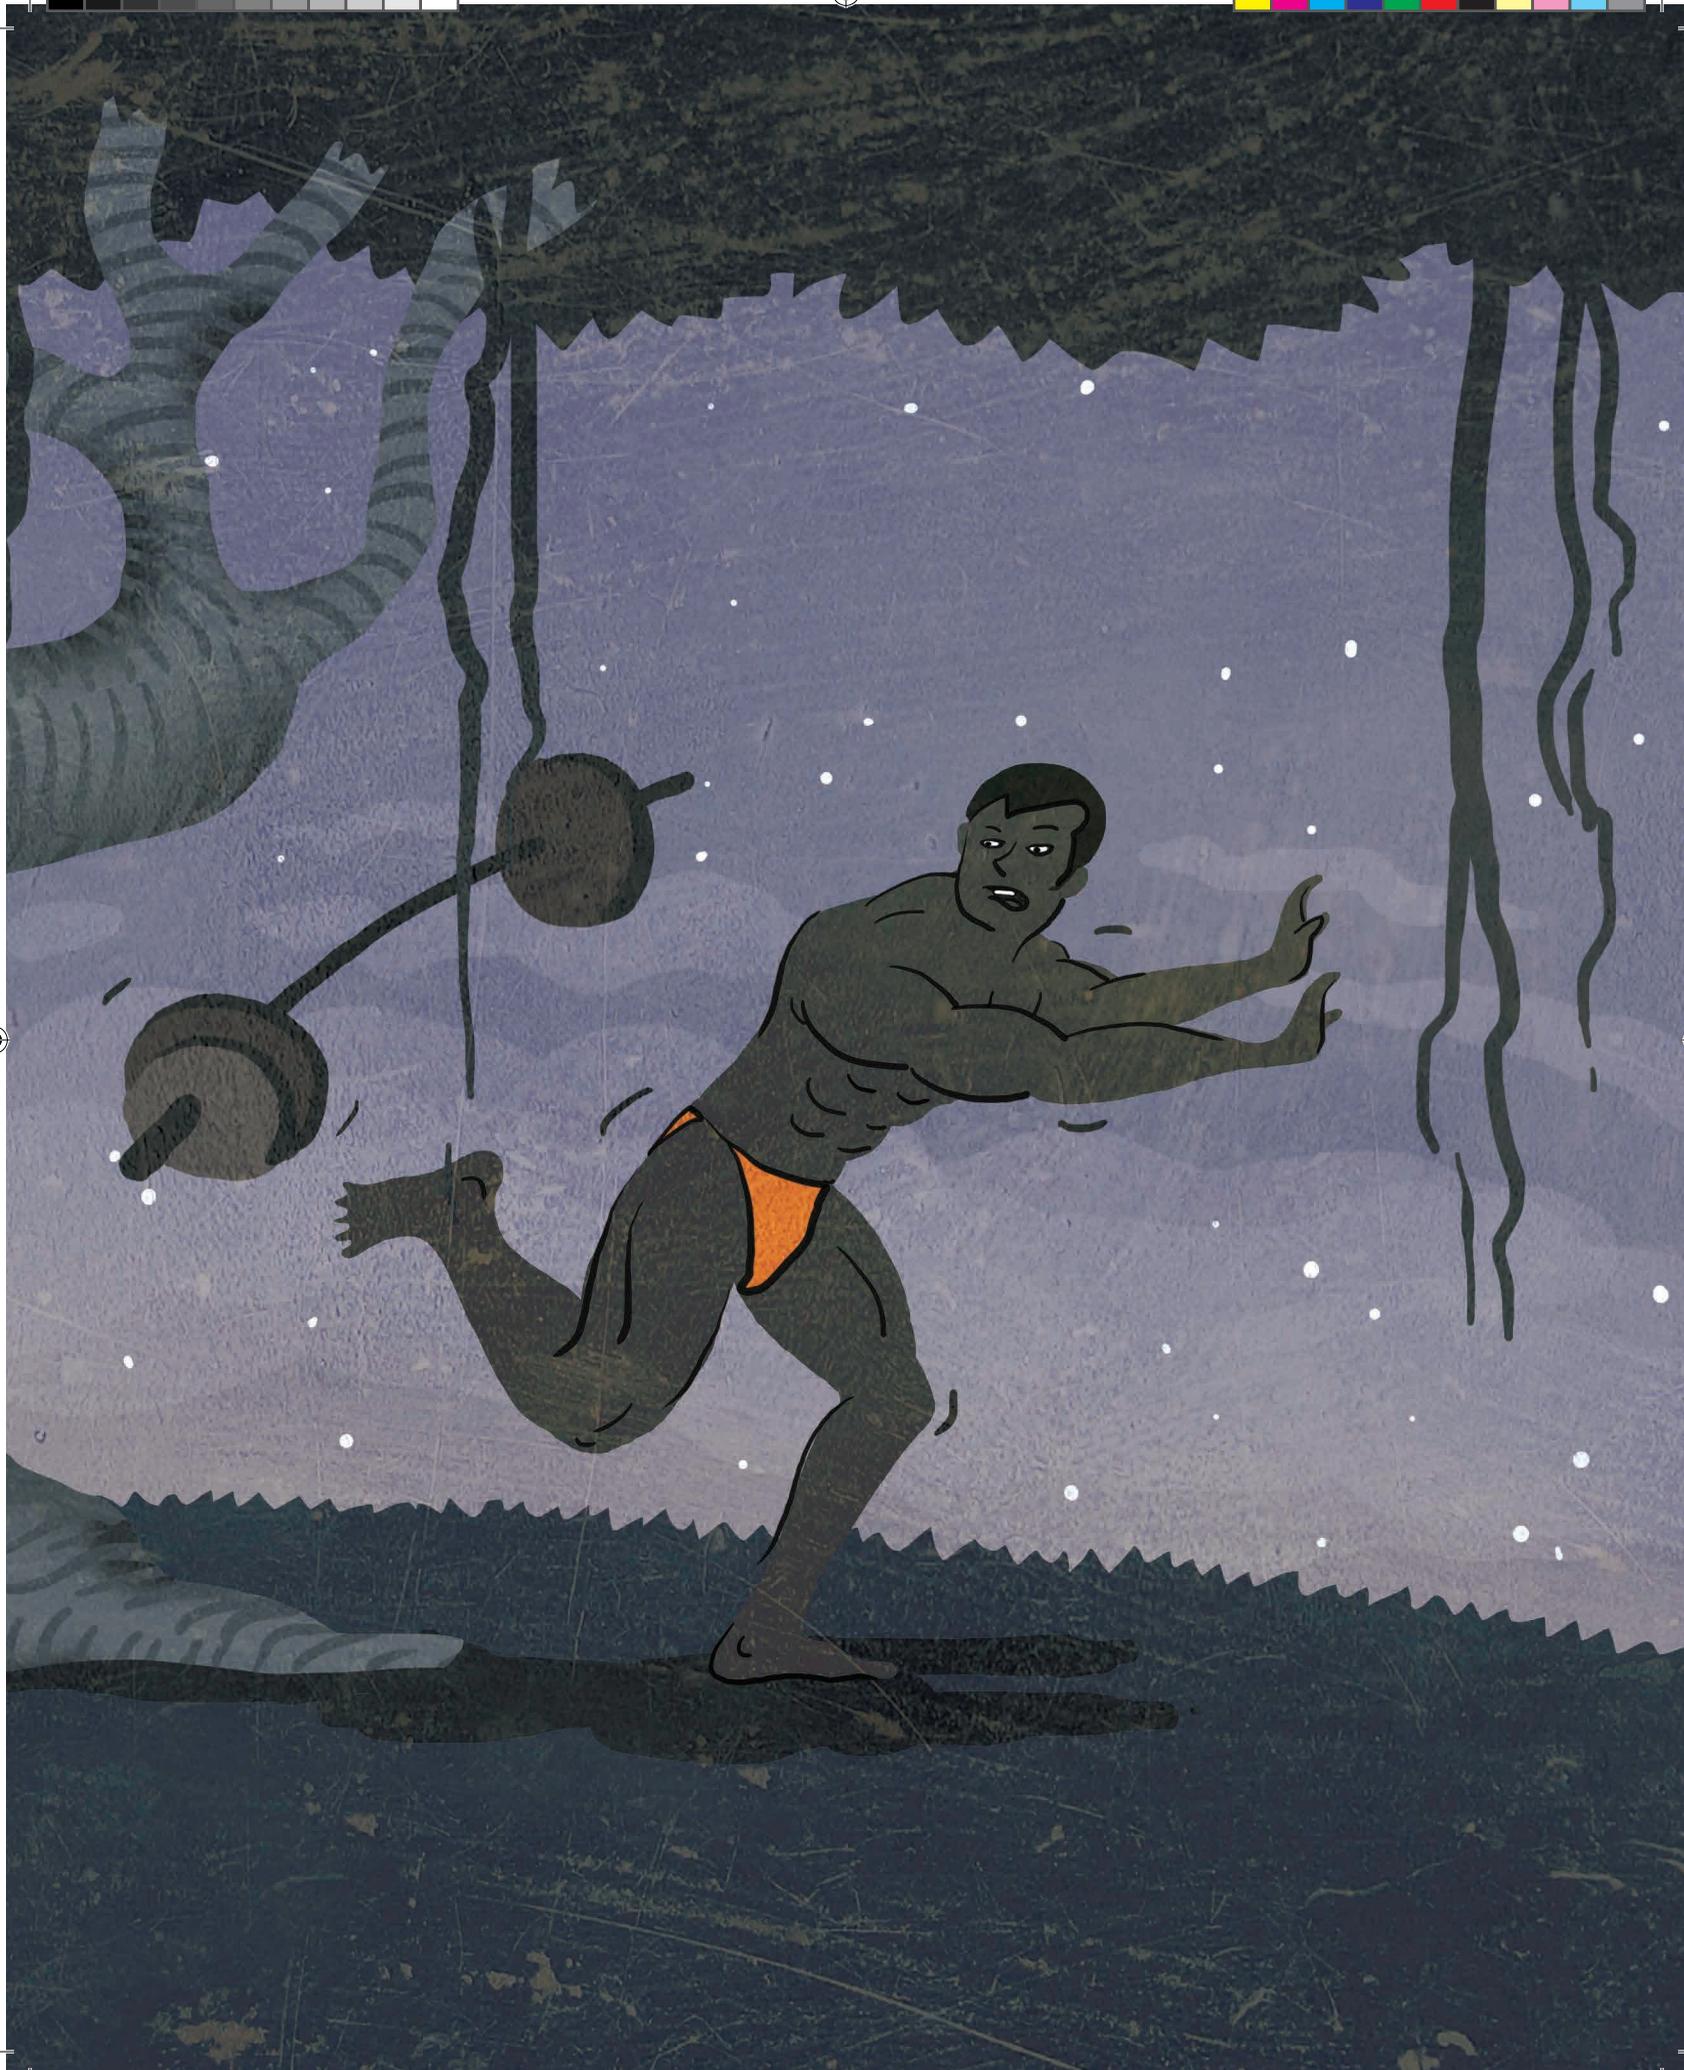

On another day, a police constable with a big moustache.

He was fond of seeing people run away in fear.

One day, he felt sick.
But he still wanted to scare someone.

Late at night, he snuck into a mouse's house.
The mouse was sleeping peacefully.

The mouse shivered in fear, and asked in a stammering voice,
“Wh-wh-who is there?”

“Oh! You’re just a ghost?
I thought you were a cat,” said the mouse.

So the mouse pulled up his blanket and went to sleep!
