Every child should own a hundred books by the age of five. To that end, Book Dash gathers creative volunteers to create new African storybooks that anyone can freely print, translate and distribute. Then we work with partners to give those books to preschool children to own.

Let's go on a litter hunt

Papa says, "This yard is a MESS.
The wind blew the rubbish in."

Mama says, "Let's go on a litter hunt.
First look for tins."

Papa says, "Wear these gloves."

Yuck!

We're going on a tin hunt.
We look up high and down low.
We look under the bushes
and against the fence.

We've found
red tins and green tins,
rusty tins and shiny tins,
clean tins and dirty tins.

What must we do with all these tins?

Find a bin and put them in!

Now look for plastic.

We're going on a plastic hunt.
We look up high and down low.
We look behind the chicken coop
and in front of the house.

We've found
milk bottles and bottle tops,
shopping bags and sucker sticks,
straws and broken buckets.

What must we do with all this plastic?

Find a bin and put it in!

Now look for paper.

We're going on a paper hunt.
We look up high and down low.
We look near the water barrel
and on top of the bench.

We've found wet paper and dry paper,
cardboard boxes and newspaper,
old paper plates and dirty tissues.

Yuck!

What must we do with all this paper?

Find a bin and put it in!

What else can you look for?
Hmm ...

There's no
more mess!

Wow!
This place is so clean. Thanks, litter hunters.

You deserve
a treat! And remember ... what must you do with your litter?

Find a bin and put it in!
